Georgioupolis

Georgioupolis is a seaside village, part of the municipality Apokoronas in the regional unit of Chania, in northwestern Crete. It was named after Prince George of Greece, high commissioner of the island at the end of the Ottoman occupation.

It is located 39 kilometres (24 miles) east of Chania, about 23 km (14 miles) west of Rethymno and about 100 km (62 miles) west of Heraklio.
